

the complete sequence of sessions and complete the required assignments for any of our workshops/courses.

Details, enrollment information, enrollment form and requirements are available at http://www.learner.org/channel/workshops/graduate_credit.html

Tune In ...

Each day, the Annenberg/CPB Channel offers an in-depth exploration of subjects, organized by curriculum area:

Sunday: Art and Humanities; Monday: Literature and Language Arts; Tuesday: Mathematics; Wednesday: Science; Thursday: History and Social Studies; Friday: Languages and World Culture; Saturday: Education; Each day: Professional Development

See the broadcast schedule at http://www.learner.org/channel/chnnl_schedule.html

1. Watch or record from GenNET Channel 75.
2. Request GenNET to record your programs for $5 fee.
3. Watch online via broadband live simulcast. (You can view the live Annenberg/CPB Channel broadcast online if you have a broadband connection. To hear the sound and view video, you should have Windows Media Player, DSL, a cable modem, or a LAN connection to a T1 line or greater, and have Javascript enabled.)

For questions or assistance contact:

GISD's Technology & Media Services
(810) 591-4436 or write to

VirtualLearning@geneseeisd.org

Beverly Knox-Pipes, Asst. Superintendent for Technology

Annenberg/CPB workshops bring teachers, educational leaders, and public figures together for professional development in the humanities, math, and science.

Annenberg/CPB Professional Development

FREE Professional development programming for K-12 teachers

resource library • professional development • graduate credit

Annenberg/CPB is a unit of The Annenberg Foundation, located at the offices of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Our mission is to advance excellent teaching in all disciplines throughout American K-12 schools.

Genesee Intermediate School District

2413 West Maple Avenue

Flint, Michigan 48507-3493

Thomas Svitkovich, Ed.D., Superintendent

The Annenberg/CPB Channel is a free satellite channel for schools, colleges, and other community organizations. It runs 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and airs the video programs funded by Annenberg/CPB.

View the program guide at http://www.learner.org/channel/chnnl_programguide.html

Resource Library for Teachers

Staff Development Video Libraries

Video libraries are designed to allow teachers to see each other in action, by providing extensive fly-on-the-wall looks into classrooms around the country. Organized by subject, method, and grade level, our libraries correlate directly with national standards. The focus is always on best practices, but filming real students in real classrooms means that our video libraries can never preach—they're too authentic for that. Instead, they exemplify how great teaching comes about against all odds in the real world.

Video Instructional Series

For instruction, Annenberg/CPB series remain among the most respected educational programming in public broadcasting and in the classroom—from favorites like The Western Tradition and French in Action, to new releases like A Biography of America and English Composition: Writing for an Audience. Our goal has always been to use the video medium not just to redistribute the same old curricula, but to expand what can be taught by cultivating video's inherent capacity to go places no traditional classroom can go, and to juxtapose national and international experts with unparalleled and authoritative imagery.

See a listing of these resources at <http://www.learner.org/>. Choose "Browse Teacher Resources" at the top of the page.

Professional Development Video Workshops and Courses

Individual or Facilitator-Guided Group Discussions

Workshops and courses bring educational leaders and teachers together to address professional issues, and to help both preservice and inservice teachers develop their craft by using the results of educational research in their own classrooms. Workshops and courses can also allow participating teachers to build their professional credentials through graduate credit and other statewide, regional, and district inservice programs. Please visit our detailed Taking a Workshop section for more information at http://www.learner.org/channel/chnnl_workshops.html

- Registration is required by March 14, June 11, or October 24 in order for groups to receive Certificates of Participation after May 23, August 13, or December 26.
- Download the support materials for your workshop or course.
- Download and read the Facilitator's Guide.
- Determine how you will access the video portion of the workshop, if applicable.
- Enroll for graduate credit if desired.
- Complete the workshop.
- Submit an Attendance Roster and encourage your participants to fill out an evaluation form (PDF).

Register at http://www.learner.org/channel/workshops/register_info.html

Graduate Credit

Graduate credit is available for courses and most workshops for a reasonable cost. Colorado State University offers graduate-level semester credits to those who participate in